

The Woman's Shop

Conducted by

MISS HELEN COX
MISS M. L. BOEHNER
MRS. J. W. BURLEY

The Woman's Shop has sprung into prominence as a place of the identity of Miss Cox, Miss Bohner and Mrs. Burley, who are so widely known.

The smartest styles are shown immediately after their appearance in the New York exclusive stores.

The Woman's Shop is emphatically the style-leader of Salt Lake.

REX

There will be three subjects on the new program at the Rex theatre beginning with the matinee tomorrow. The especial attraction will be the second of "The Adventures of Terrence O'Rourke," the three-part series-serial which began there a week ago. Each of the episodes is a complete romance. The present subject is entitled "When a Queen Loved O'Rourke" and tells of the experiences of the gentleman adventurer in Bombay, India.

Additional subjects for the first of the week bill at the Rex will be a Vitagraph comedy-drama entitled "Sonny Jim's First Love Affair." To all but Sonny Jim it is very amusing.

"The Mystery of the Empty Room," a two-part Vitagraph drama, will also be on the bill, being played by an all-star cast. It is one of the best detective yarns of recent months.

A gentleman in want of a coachman had an Irishman apply for the situation, when the following conversation took place between them:

"You know, Pat, if I engage you, I shall expect you to do things by combination. For instance, if I tell you to bring the carriage round at a given time I shall expect the horses with it and driving gloves, etc."

"Yes, sorr," said Pat.

He was duly engaged, and gave satisfaction. One day his master came to him in a hurry, telling him to look sharp and go for a doctor, as his mistress was ill. Pat was gone for a long time, and on his master grumbling at him for his delay, he said:

"Sure, they're all here, sorr."

"All here!" said the master. "What do you mean?"

"Didn't you tell me to do things by combination?"

"What's that got to do with it?" said the master.

"Well," said Pat, "I've got the doctor, the parson and the undertaker."—Tit-Bits.

A sad and seedy individual gained admission to the offices of one of the city's best known legal firms, says the New York Weekly, and at last somehow penetrated to the sanctum of the senior partner.

The visitor was nothing if not frank.

"Half a dollar," he said boldly.

The man's unusual demeanor caught the lawyer's curiosity.

"There you are," he said, handing out the money. "And now I should like to have you tell me how you came to fall so low in the world."

The visitor laughed. "All my youth," he explained, "I had counted on inheriting something from my uncle, but when he died he left all he had to an orphan asylum."

"A philanthropist," commented the lawyer. "What did his estate consist of?"

"Ten children," said the visitor—and vanished.

A small special constable in England when on top of a tram-car was requested by the conductor to come down to deal with a man who was inclined to be abusive. Reluctantly the special constable complied with the request, but found himself confronted by a huge navvy about 6 feet 6 inches high and 4 feet broad. "There he is," said the conductor. "He won't pay his fare." The small special constable reflected, and then remarked sadly: "Well, I suppose I must pay it for him."

Some of these chaps who dance fifteen miles in a cabaret every evening would be dead tired if they had to walk two miles.
